

ROUMANIANS AND SERBIANS STILL ADVANCE

Heavy Rains Delay Progress On Western Front—Allies Gain Ground In The East Against Stubborn Foe

With rain still keeping the operations of the eastern allies and German on the western front in France mainly to artillery duels, interest in the world-war has been transferred to the Russian, Rumanian and Macedonian fronts, on all of which heavy fighting is in progress.

The fierce battle which has been raging for several days between the Russians in Volynia, is still without decisive result for either side, while in Galicia, along the Zolota-Lipa river, where the Rumanians are trying to pass through to Lemberg, and Austro-German forces are still holding them back.

Bucharest is still silent with regard to the operations of Rumanian troops which crossed the Danube between Rastatt and Vercel, and entered the Bulgarian territory, but Berlin says these men have been hastily withdrawn in the fear of being encircled by the forces of Field Marshal von Mackensen.

Fresh gas has been used by the Rumanians against the centre and left wing of the Teutonic allies operating to the north of Dobruja are chronicles by Bucharest. At Aulova, the centre of the Teutons was captured, and with it more than 1,000 men, and seven guns and much material.

In Transylvania, from Orsova, on the Danube near the Hungarian-Rumanian frontier, to the Bukovina border, numerous engagements have been fought. Bucharest claims successes for the Rumanian army in the region of Odessin, between Fogaras and Sighacina, and in the mountains to the west of the river Alut. It is admitted that the Rumanians, troops were withdrawn from the Jiu valley, but before falling back the cool mines at Petrovar were destroyed by them.

The Berlin war office admits the retirement of the Teutonic allies before the Serbians & prepared positions near Lake Presba, on the western end of the Macedonian front, and also at Niseh, north of Kaimaktsalan height on the Balkan frontier, and that the British are maintaining themselves in positions they have captured along the Struma river north of Lake Presba, on the latter region the British have added to their front the town of Jenko.

Wilson Does Not Want Their Votes

Stung to anger by an avalanche of insulting and insinuating communications demanding that the government take certain action that would favor Germany, President Wilson, through the medium of a telegram addressed to Jeremiah O'Leary, president of the so-called American Truth Society, an organization formed for the purpose of aiding the German propaganda, has served notice on the hypocrites that he wants no "disloyal" Americans to vote for him. The president's message, which was in reply to a telegram from O'Leary accusing him of being pro-British, was sent from Long Island, N. Y., and read: "You belong pro-British, I would feel deeply mortified to have you or anybody like you vote for me. Since you are so anxious to many disloyal Americans, and I have not, I will ask you to convey this message to them."

Huns Suggest Peace Terms To Belgium

A special cable from the New York Tribune from London says: German agents, acting through King Albert of the Belgians, suggested recently definite terms to the allies regarding Belgium, Serbia and Lorraine. This is learned from an official source. The proposal included the withdrawal of the Germans from Belgium, the payment of an indemnity for the destruction due to military occupation, the retirement of the Kaiser's forces from Serbia without an indemnity, and the return of Lorraine to France.

Mrs. C. A. Burk Passes Away Suddenly

A very sudden death occurred last Sunday night when Mrs. C. A. Burk passed away at her home just north of town.

Although suffering occasionally with her heart, deceased had, of late been enjoying the best of health. She was in town last Friday doing her usual weekly shopping, and on Saturday and Sunday was about attending to her every day duties, retiring Sunday night apparently as well and bright as ever. About midnight Mrs. Burk was awakened by her husband in heavy breathing and while crying he relieves her she passed away. Death was caused from heart failure.

Deceased, whose maiden name was Mary Merida Bending, was born in Indiana 56 years ago. Ten years ago she came to Canada with her husband, settling on the farm north of here where they have lived ever since. To her was born seven children, five of whom, with her family, are now in the adjoining farm. Besides an aged mother who lives with her at the time of her death, deceased leaves two sisters, one in Iowa and one in Saskatchewan. She is a brother.

To the bereaved husband and family the sympathy of their many friends is extended. The funeral will be held in the Hillside cemetery, Medicine Hat, on Wednesday afternoon.

Privilege For Canadians To Be In Advance

"Germany has suffered a black week and German psychology takes unwelcome to a form of doctrine as different from the tonic effect of a daily victory," says Sir Stan Hughes in a long interview given to the Weekly Dispatch and carried here by the Montreal Gazette's correspondent in London.

"Canadians regard it as a great privilege," Sir Stan said, "to have been permitted to play an honorable part in the unparalleled struggle upon the Somme. With their grim memories of Hoge and Ypres the Canadians doubtless also remember the Somme, because they are now no longer fighting under the disadvantage of superior numbers and of the overwhelming superiority of guns and munitions. They have had the gratification of seeing the German army from their most formidable positions. Our victory at the Somme is a spur to greater effort and an encouragement to greater sacrifice."

Constantinople is Anxious About Greece

Reports that Greece is about to declare war on the side of the allies have led to the wholesale massacre of Greeks in Asia-Minor by the Turkish Greek residents of the Smyrna district have suffered greatly from persecution and in the following districts many Greeks have been killed.

Constantinople is much aroused over the possibility that the British may join the allies. Constantinople newspapers declare that in the event of an allied victory the British Constantinople will be burnt to the ground before the Greeks will be allowed to enter the city.

THEY'S OFF.

Acadia constituency is first in the list and also apparently intends to be first in its contributions to the Patriotic Fund as it has already received $10,000 from the 1915-16 Patriotic Fund. The cheque was forwarded by Mr. Andrew Boyd of the Woodville Valley Association a few days ago. Other points which have also not in creditable amounts are also on the new fund are Dalhousie $20,000, Cansboro $43,000, Blairmore $69,000, and Melrose $200. The general committee has also named a gun-will for the Patriotic Fund for the coming year, as the general campaign for contributions has not yet been started.

Old Evil Revived In Medicine Hat

A number of Medicine Hat dealers in what was labelled "two per cent" were up on the carpet last week charged with breaking the provincial prohibition law. It seems the drink was called and taken to be a drink called beer, a drink which caused men to become what was known in those days as inebriated or more commonly called pickled. In the early part of the 20th century places were licensed to sell this beer, but in modern times it is considered a crime to even think about it.

The men who answered the roll call to Medicine Hat contributed fifty plunks to the provincial fund for building court houses, ferries, bridges, etc.

Memorial Service In Presbyterian Church

A memorial service for Sam Miller, whose death on the battlefield on Oct. 1 was celebrated, was held in the Presbyterian church last Sunday evening. The church was well filled for the occasion. Among those present were members of the O. A. S. of the State of England and Rebekah lodge, of which deceased was a member.

The pastor, Rev. G. L. Gordon, preached an appropriate sermon in which he reviewed the life of Christ which led up to the great sacrifice He made that others might be saved. He admonished his hearers, and especially those whose homes were saddened by the death of a loved one, to think of this Great Sacrifice and Him who made it, when thinking of the soldier.

The pastor paid a tribute to the memory of the deceased in which he pointed out that he had always been a fearless and courageous young man, who was not afraid to take his stand for what he believed to be right. Possessing these qualities it was only that he should answer the call to duty when his country was in danger.

Canadians Again In Think of Fighting

Called advice to Ottawa received in Ottawa Tuesday morning as to the effect that the Canadians have been in the line of the fighting on the Somme since Friday last. These cables do not specify the point at which the Canadians have been engaged it is presumed that it is in the neighborhood of Thiepval, Courcelles and Pessier and Heller, redoubts where according to British official statement the Germans have been making desperate attempts to stem further advance and to prevent the British from crossing the Ancre river to the left of the present fighting line. The morning's cables state that the Canadian casualties have been comparatively light in this fighting, having regard to the importance of the operations. Different support by the guns is held to be largely responsible for this. It is said that the recent heavy lists of casualties, published in Canada, include those sustained as far back as the beginning of September. The week-end casualties totaled 994, but only a portion of them were included in the most recent fighting.

All Available Men And Women Wanted

Gen. Sir Wm. Robertson, chief of the imperial staff at army headquarters, said in a speech at Dairley, Lincolnshire, that while the allies were winning the war slowly but surely, it was imperative to impress on the necessity of procuring more men for army and munition factories in this connection, he said, he had a serious word of warning to give. "We are not justified in expecting to win the war," he said, "unless the service of every man and woman in the country is utilized to the fullest extent."

"We must be under no delusion," he continued, "as to the end or probable endurance of the great struggle." We must be prepared to continue for a time which at present cannot be estimated.

"In fact, we must prepare for the state of war we have for the best. We have adopted in the army the principle of national service. We must see that we put it into practice, because we want more men and we want them now and eventually we shall want all who can be spared."

British Bring Down Another Zeppelin

Ten Zeppelins took part in last Sunday's raid over England. Two of the balloons were destroyed. One of them was driven away and the other was destroyed. An official account of the raid follows:

"Ten airships crossed the east coast between 9 and 10 o'clock. One airship approached the north of London at about 10 o'clock, but was driven off by gun fire and pursued by aeroplanes. She attempted to return from the southwest, but was driven off by gun fire and aeroplanes and brought to earth in flames in the neighborhood of Patter's Bar, shortly after midnight."

ALBERTA MAY MAKE WORLD'S WHEAT RECORD

Clareholt-Farmer has 1000 Acres now Averaging 52 Bushels to Acre

Albert gets the world's record for wheat yield, according to the report that comes from Clareholt, C. S. 8, which is in the Clareholt district, has a 1,000-acre field of wheat, the crop from which has now been about half threshed. To date it has given a yield of 52 bushels to the acre. If this exceptional average is maintained through the rest of the harvesting he will capture the prize, the biggest wheat grower on the map.

The world's record for wheat is now held by the Baloune country in Washington, which has to its credit a top yield of 51 bushels. The Alberta crop is, therefore, one full bushel in the lead. As to the quality, it is turning out No. 1 hard.

Mr. Noble's big wheat field is at Nobleford, about 25 miles southwest of Clareholt. He had a crop of 230,000 bushels last year, and, according to present indications, will exceed that figure this year. The wheat crops have been obtained by as thorough-going a policy of scientific farming as has been known in the world. If the world's record does finally go to the Clareholt district it will be the record of knowing how and working hard.

British Now In Enemy's Lunch Basket

Baguette is now only two miles beyond the British lines. Soldiers charging in Monday's attack speak of their amazement at finding themselves crossing a field of sugar beets. They had to cut through their way out of the desert zone created by the shell-fire into a region where peasants have grown their crops and evacuated their homes only when the battle front drew nearer.

Looking toward Baguette, it appears almost as normal as ten-mile back of the old trench lines on the British side.

So open has the fighting become now in the centre that cavalry patrols have been used.

French and British Do Good Team Work

Still further gains for British and French troops on the Somme river in France are chronicled in the latest official communiqué from London and Paris. The Germans have been cleared out of positions held since the beginning of the war, and have been forced to give up all except a very small portion of the Schwaben redoubt in the region. In addition, to the east, between Lésard and Fiers the troops of General Douglas Haig have passed forward their positions. During Saturday night and Sunday German trenches near Morval and Clerf fell into the hands of the French in grenade fighting.

Under prohibition the state of Kansas increased its per capita wealth to $1,650 more than that of any other state in the union before that of the United States. It has an auto for every sixth family and one family out of seven has a telephone. It is just plain horrible, isn't it, what prohibition does for a country?

The Servians fighting in the Kaimaktsalan region on the Macedonian front, have made further progress, according to a new official announcement, taking first line trenches from the Bulgarians and capturing another battery. Bulgarian attacks on British positions on the left bank of the Struma were repulsed, the Bulgarians sustaining heavy losses.

Major-General Maurier, chief of the military operations of the imperial army staff, says that the British are perfectly satisfied with the way things are going, though the end is not yet in sight. The allies did not expect to finish the war in the autumn, and did not attempt it. The job is one of wearing down, and the allies do not expect any sudden collapse of the Germans.

THANKSGIVING.

With the bloodiest war the world has ever known now in progress with Canada in that war and pledged to stay in it even to the last man and the last dollar; with the battle fields of Flanders, Belgium and Gallipoli soaked with a hemorrhage of the nation's blood; with a vacant chair in almost every Canadian home, and a goodly number right in our own midst; with all these and other depressing incidents fresh in our minds one might at first ask: "What have we to be thankful for at this Thanksgiving season?" Yet with a little thought and reflection we, in this part of the world, can find much for which to be thankful right now.

While other countries are suffering for want of food and from crop failures, this province has just reaped another bountiful harvest which at the present market prices will mean the creation of millions of dollars of new money. It is already estimated that the returns from the various grain, the livestock and the miscellaneous products of the farm in this province alone will amount to approximately $135,000,000 as a result of this year's agricultural activities.

This may seem to some like looking too much at the pecuniary side of the situation but when we remember the circumstances which led to the holding of the first Thanksgiving Day we may be excused for this reference.

Thanksgiving Day was first set apart by the Plymouth Pilgrims in 1861 in acknowledgment of their first harvest in America and has been perpetuated by an annual festival. Its national celebration, in recognition of the year's blessing, was first recommended by proclamation of President Lincoln in 1863 and has since been annually observed in almost every country. But apart from this there are many other things for which we can be thankful even in these troublesome times. We are living in a land free from plague and pestilence, rich in resources and acres, and so far removed from the scenes of carnage and cruelty in war cursed Europe that our eyes may not behold the destruction.

We have indeed much for which to be thankful. But in all our thanksgiving festivities we should remember that much is expected from those to whom much is given.

SCHOOL NOT ALL.

Frequently we hear both parents and children lamenting the fact that because they live in small towns or country places they do not enjoy the school advantages their city cousins do. While it is very nice to have all the city side lines, the school is not all. Very much depends on the children themselves. A large percentage of the leading men and women in the world today got their early schooling in small country schools.

An example of what a small school can produce was shown recently when Ada Anderson, a young Scandinavian girl, made the most remarkable individual success of Alberta College North during the year 1915-1916 and one that has never been equaled in western Canada. Miss Anderson went to Alberta College North from a little country school in the north country without her high school entrance standing and in eight months she won the college gold medal for general proficiency and the University of Alberta scholarship for the highest standing in the province.

Because of the bountiful harvest in this province this year and the crop failures in other wheat producing countries, the farmers of this district are looking forward to big prices for their grain. While the present prices will be most tempting for immediate disposal of this year's crop we would advise farmers to look ahead to next year's seed supply. Because of the crop failure in other provinces of the Dominion and in other countries there is bound to be a shortage of seed next spring. As this will mean a big price for seed grain it would be well if farmers would reserve some of their best grain for that purpose.

This would not only be a profitable speculation but a patriotic move as well. Two years ago Alberta depended on other provinces for her seed. It now looks as though we might have an opportunity of returning the compliment.

WHERE WILL IT END. The Dominion Trades and Labor congress which was in session in Toronto last week has gone on record as being in favor of the Dominion government taking control of the food prices in Canada.

To the urban population such a step would be very welcome at the present time but where would this end?

Since the farmer, who is the producer of most food stuffs, might be hard hit by such legislation, would he, in turn, not be justified in asking the government to regulate the price of farm implements and all other commodities which go to make up his requirements for producing those food stuffs? What then? To regulate the price of the farmers' equipment might mean also to regulate the wages of men employed in the manufacturing of them. This brings us back again to where we started—The Trades and Labor congress. The congress in passing the above resolution may be starting a movement which will lead up to a reduction in the wages of some of its members.

A man down in Kentucky who was bitten by a rattlesnake, cured himself by drinking a quart of corn whiskey. Since this news has leaked out this district should be more popular than ever as a summer resort.

The men out with the snow plows last Wednesday were evidently practicing a new system of trench making. They plowed up several trenches in the edge of the road and now the town looks like a fortified burr. Evidently the plowmen are more interested in the horses than in pedestrians.

Britain now appears to be in a position to cope with the German air warfare, which means that she is mistress of the air as well as of the sea. With the Huns beaten on land and sea and in the air we may now look for them attempting supremacy in deeper trenches. If they die deep enough they'll get where they belong in time.

Except with her navy Britain was caught unprepared for this war but she is profiting by the lesson. Even now in the very thick of war she is preparing for peace. Commissions are busy all over the Empire making plans for the development of industry and the betterment of trade traditions within the Empire when the war is over. There is no doubt that their work will bear fruit and that when normal conditions return the Empire will be prepared for a season of great industrial activities.

A few weeks ago a Medicine Hat daily was loudly sounding the praises of the citizens for keeping well within the law by using only the softest of soft drinks. Just as the outside world was beginning to think the Medicine Hat people were making their tea and lemonade out of soft water, those nasty, cruel, provincial analysts boy tell us that Medicine Hat's Y. W. C. A. beverage is 5.52 per cent strong. That's not bad for a three months' old baby.

BREAD FACTS

It is a mistake to think that the moisture of a loaf of bread depends wholly upon the quantity of water it contains. One that seems quite dry in eating may contain as much water as, or even more than one that eats moist. The difference in the sensation is due to the condition of the gluten in the bread. If this has been sufficiently ripened in the dough the bread will seem soft and moist, if it is either over or under ripe it will seem dry, but the sensation of dryness arises from a different cause in the two cases. In the first case the bread is dry because of the toughness of the crumb and the difficulty with which it mixes with the saliva to form a bolus in the mouth. The absence of flavor is due to the insolubility of these parts which possess flavor, and the sensation imparted to the palate is much like that produced by fine marbles or hard. When the dough has been overripe the sensation of dryness is still caused by the difficulty in getting the bread in the mouth to mix with the saliva and form a continuous paste. It is crumbly, and will not stick together. The flavor or bread is in some degree dependent on its moistness, and some persons have in fact a difficulty in distinguishing between the physical sensations due to the latter and the flavor proper, which only be produced by the soluble substances in bread.

Classic Model in Cloth-of-Aid

A novel gown, built on Grecian lines, made of gold tissue with purple embroideries. These dresses call for long, straight lines, broken about the hips by the girle of ribbon or of interlaced cords that are artistically looped at one side, and whose ends are tipped with tassels or other ornamental pendants. It is not every type of woman who can adopt the Greek gown. It requires height of stature and dignity of bearing. The lady in the sketch is wearing one of these new-old robes. It is made of cloth-of-gold, combined with purple chiffon—the combination being very effective in requiring little of superfluous ornamentation. The model is simply trimmed with embroidery, and the dress is of the design, and is complete with a cord girle of interlaced gold threads and purple strands of silk.

Creamed Shrimps With Pasta. Melt four tablespoons butter, and add three tablespoons flour and one-half teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon pepper; then pour on gradually, while stirring constantly, one and one-half cups milk. As soon as sauce has thickened, add one cup shrimps, broken in pieces, and one cup creamed peas, drain for a few minutes, and thoroughly rinse with cold water.

What Salisbury Thought

The Bishop of London on one occasion when he went to Buckingham Palace told the late King that he had passed Lord Salisbury in an ante-room, but the latter did not seem to know him. "Oh," said King Edward, "Lord Salisbury never recognizes any one," and going to a bureau he took out a few portraits of himself and handed them to the bishop, saying, "What do you think of this?" "A very excellent likeness, sir," said the bishop. "When I showed it to Salisbury," said the King, "he looked hard at it and then said, 'Poor old Bucker! J. & M. if he's as old as he looks.'"

"Heipin' Paw"

"When you grow up I suppose you will be an undertaker like your father."

"Now, I am gontee be a chauffer so I kin help me paw's business!"

Motes and Beams

"Married men declare that their wives can't keep a secret, but those men themselves are just as bad. A married man buttonholed me in the billiard room an hour ago and told me a frightful scandal."

"Don't let this go any further, George," he ended.

"No, certainly not," said I. "But how did you happen to hear it?"

"Oh, the wife, of course, he answered. 'She's just like all women—can't keep a secret!'"

All That Was Necessary

The roads at Sheshon-in-Mad were in a very bad state, but no one seemed to worry much about it until a member of the bar's council went to London on a short holiday.

While there he was greatly impressed by the road paving in the street, which he thought was exactly what was wanted at Sheshon, and on his return he at once gave the attention of his fellow councillors to the matter. To his surprise he did not meet with much support, some objections on account of expense, while others did not seem to realize what he was talking about. He was rather upset, and after an exciting argument he exclaimed:

"Well, gentlemen, you can say what you like about the difficulty of us getting the road paved, but I can't see any difficulty. All that is necessary is for us to put our heads together, and then we shall get it."

Paris considers the capture of Comblies with its great booty complete as one of the most brilliantly-executed operations of the summer campaign.

Larry Bole, who was at one time on the Merchants Bank staff here, has been awarded the Victoria Cross for conspicuous bravery on the battle field.

Her many friends here will be sorry to learn that Mrs. J. Cloutier, formerly of Redcliff, but now of Shaunavon, Sask., is seriously ill at her home.

Geo. Neve, who has been home on leave for the past month, left last night for Camp Hughes to join his regiment, the Fronteniers. Neve says they expect to be ordered across any time now.

The heavy fall of snow last Sunday Monday and Tuesday has retarded threshing operations for a few days at least. However it has done little or no damage as all the grain was in good shape for such an emergency.

The name of another soldier whose parents live in Redcliff is mentioned in the casualty list this week. He is Wilfrid Rae, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rae of this town. Fortunately he is only wounded, although the report does not say how badly. Rae enlisted at Saskatoon. He is a young man about twenty years of age and unmarried.

The Red Cross tea held in Reid's hall last Friday afternoon attracted a fairly good crowd and the ladies were kept busy during the tea hours. The hall was nicely arranged for the occasion and most appetizing refreshments were served. The proceeds which amounted to $27.50 go to the fund to provide Christmas presents for Canadian soldiers in hospitals.

Wm. Stinson, who was one of the first young men to leave Redcliff for the front, and who has been in the trenches through some of the fiercest fighting in the earlier stages of the war, is now an instructor in one of the training camps in shorncliffe. During his stay in the trenches his feet got so badly used up that he is at present unfit for active service. Otherwise he is enjoying good health.

The game guardian for this district has received word from Edmonton calling his attention to the fact that farm hands have been shooting game without the required license, and advising him to warn them that if the practice is continued trouble may be expected. Farm hands are not considered a member of the farm's family and therefore require a separate resident license to shoot. Neither is there any exception for soldiers. They require a license the same as any other resident of Alberta.

The W. A. of St. Andrew's Church are giving a social evening in the Parish hall tomorrow night (Friday). All are invited.

Owing to the stormy weather the annual meeting of the Red Cross society which was to have been held last Tuesday afternoon, has been postponed till next Tuesday, at the same time and place. As this is an important meeting all members are requested to attend.

Owing to the difficulty in securing a white cook the quick lunch counter at the Redcliff hotel will not be opened as expected this week. If a cook cannot be secured in the next few days it is the intention of the management to open up the hotel dining room on the 15th of this month and run it until further notice.

M. H. Redcliff, a well known local man, was wounded by shrapnel in the trenches on June 13th and has been in a hospital in England ever since. He says, however, that he is now almost fit for service again. In April last Redcliff was specially mentioned by his commanding officer for gallant conduct in rendering untiring assistance to the wounded after he himself was wounded and suffering from shell shock.

While motoring from Harro, Mont., last Tuesday with his wife and three children C. F. Bedford met with an accident which caused him some inconvenience but fortunately no one was hurt. The heavy fall of snow made the roads very treacherous and in a bad spot the car turned completely over. All the occupants were under the car but managed to crawl out. After assistance arrived the car was righted and the party proceeded to Redcliff, where here none the worse of their experience.

Elder David Hollinger, of Greenville, Ohio, arrived in town today and will remain here on business for a few days. While here he will visit his brother, R. C. Hollinger.
